DEPARTMENT.

ADMIRALTY.

A List of the Lord High Admirals of Great Britain, or such as have enjoyed that Dignity under any other Denomination, since the Year 872, at which Time the Kings of England held that Office; and for several Years afterwards, went upon Expeditions with their Fleets, and were in several Sea Engagements.

THE Lord High Admiral is the ninth great officer of state, and is an officer of great trust and honor, and was formerly so great, that his office was usually given to some of the King's younger sons, near kinsmen, or to some of the first of the nobility. He has the management of all maritime affairs, the government of the Royal Navy; with power of decision in all maritime cases, both civil and criminal. He judges of all transgressions; done upon or beyond the sea, in any part of the world, upon the coasts, in all ports and havens, and upon all rivers below the first bridge from the sea. By him, all navy officers, from an Admiral to a Lieutenant, are commissioned; all deputies for particular coasts, and coroners for viewing dead bodies found on the sea coasts, or at sea. He also appoints the judges for his Court of Admiralty, to imprison, release, &c.

The sea being reckoned without the limits of the common law, and under the jurisdiction of the Lord High Admiral, therefore, the civil law is made use of in the Court of Admiralty. The proceedings in all civil matters are according to the civil law. This is, by libel to the action, both parties giving surety that they shall stand to the judgement of the court, and he that shall fail in the suit, pay to the other what he shall be condemned to.

But in criminal matters, such as piracy, murder, treason, &c. the case is altered, as formerly the proceedings of this court in such cases, were according to the civil law; but a statute passed in the reign of King Henry the Eighth, ordaining, that criminal affairs should be tried in this court, by witnesses and a jury, and this by a special commission from the King, to the Lord High Admiral, whereof some of the judges are to be commissioners; in which case, the trial is by common law, as directed by these statutes. The customs and former decrees of this court, are there of force for deciding of controversies; and there is a court of equity under it, for determining differences between merchants.

Though the common law of England reaches as far as the low water mark, being accounted intra corpus comitatus adjacentis, and causes hence arising, are determinable by the common law; yet when the sea flows over the low water mark, the Admiral has also a jurisdiction there, over matters done (while the sea flows) between the low water mark and the land.

To the Lord High Admiral belong, by law and custom, all fines and forfeitures of all transgressions at sea, on the sea shore, in ports, and from the first bridge on rivers toward the sea; also the goods of pirates, and felons condemned and outlawed; and all ways, stray goods, wrecks of sea deodands; a share of all lawful prizes, layon, jetson, and flotson; that is, goods lying in the sea, goods cast by the sea on shore, not granted formerly, or belonging to lords of manors adjoining the sea; all great fishes, as sea hogs, and other fishes of extraordinary bigness, called royal fishes, whales only and sturgeons excepted.

Since the revolution, the maritime laws have undergone many alterations, and the office of Lord High Admiral has been considerably abridged of its perquisites. Of late years, this high office has always been in commission, and still remains an office of great honor, power, and profit.—The first commissioner of the Admiralty has a salary of 3000 l. a year; the other six commissioners, 1000 l. a year each; and all of them, (the youngest excepted) has a house in the Admiralty.

Treasurer

Treasurer of the Navy.

Under the Lord High Admiral, or the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are several departments for the better government of the Royal Navy : these are, the Treasurer of the Navy, Navy Office, Victualling Office, Transport Office, Sick and Hurt Office, Marine Office, and Greenwich Hospital. The Treasurer of the Navy's Office, Navy, Victualling and Sick and Hurt Offices, were removed from the City to Somerset Place in the year 17 .

The department of the Treasurer of the Navy, is to order payment of all seamen's wages, navy, and victualling bills, &c. He draws the money from the Exchequer by a warrant from the Commissioners of the Treasury. He is always of the Privy Council, and had formerly a salary of 2000l. a year ; but the profits of his office, especially in war time, were very considerable. Upon the reform of various offices in the year 1782, this office came in for its share ; the perquisites, or rather the advantage from great sums of the public money lying long in the Treasurer of the Navy's hands, were abolished, and his salary fixed at 4000l. a year, and 1500l. a year allowed his Deputy. There are several clerks attached to this office in London, and at the ports of Chatham, Portsmouth, and Plymouth, for the payment of seamen's wages.

Navy Office.

The business of this Office is transacted by a Comptroller and six Commissioners, each of whom has a distinct department; they are styled the principal Officers and Commissioners of his Majesty's Navy, and hold their offices by patent under the Great Seal. They are as follows, viz.

Comptroller of the Navy.

His business is to control all payments of wages, to know the market rate of all stores for shipping; to examine and audit all accounts of the Treasurer, Victuallers, Purfers, and Storekeepers. The business in this office is divided into three branches, viz. home expenditure, foreign expenditure, seamen's wages. The salary of the Comptroller is 500l. a year, and a house in Somerset Place.

Surveyor of the Navy.

The Surveyor of the Navy is to know the state of all stores, and see the wants are supplied; to survey the hulks, masts, and yards, and estimate the value of repairs; to charge all boatswains and carpenters with what stores they receive, in order to a voyage; and at their return to state and audit their accounts. For the better management of this important branch, since the year 1755 there has been two joint Surveyors, who have a salary of 500l. a year each. The senior Surveyor has an assistant at 300l. a year, and the junior, one at 200l. a year.

Clerk of the Acts.

The Clerk of the Acts is to record all Orders, Contracts, Bills, Warrants, Warrants, &c.; to receive all Petitions; to examine Remittances; to issue Warrants for several Warrant Officers in the Navy, &c. He has a salary of 800l. a year, and an assistant who has 460l. and 50l. a year for house rent.

Comptroller of the Treasurer's Accounts.

He is to keep a check on the Pay Office of the Treasurer of the Navy: his salary is 800l. a year.

Comptroller of the Victualling Accounts.

Victualling Office.

The business of this office is to superintend the victualling of the Royal Navy. This formerly was done by contract, but this method was subject to enormous abuses : it is therefore now managed by seven Commissioners, who have their respective agents at the several ports where the fleets victual, both at home and abroad. They contract for all provisions used in the navy, which they are obliged to inspect, and oversee the bakehouses and breweries ; accept of bills drawn abroad by purfers for the supply of his Majesty's ships, and audit and pass purfers' accounts. Each Commissioner has a separate department ; the salary was 400l. a year till 1798, when it was increased to 600l. per ann.

TRANSPORT OFFICE,

DORSET SQUARE, WESTMINSTER.

This office was established in August, 1794, for the purpose of conducting the transport business, which had hitherto been transacted by the navy office; it has also the care of the prisoners of war. It was at first managed by three commissioners; but the business having much encreased, two more were added in the year 1795.—The salary to each commissioner is 1000*l.* a year.—They have under them several resident agents at the different sea-ports, both at home and abroad, to superintend the particular service of embarking, re-embarking of troops, &c. and seeing that the contracts made in this particular service, are strictly attended to. These agents are captains and lieutenants of the royal navy.—There are also several agents afloat.—The captains have one guinea a day; the lieutenants 15 shillings, and 19 shillings more per month, for a servant.*

COMMISSIONERS.

Joseph Hunt, Esq. vice Marsh

* At the conclusion of the war in 1802, this board was reduced to three commissioners; Captain Schank retired on a pension of 500*l.* per ann, and Joseph Hunt, Esq. was removed to the ordnance, as clerk of the deliveries.

SICK AND HURT.

It appears by the papers in this office, that a commission for the care of sick and wounded seamen belonging to the royal navy, existed in the reign of King William; no record remains of the date of the institution, but it was dissolved in June, 1692, and the business put under the care of the commissioners of the Register Office, and remained so until June, 1702, when a separate commission was granted by the lord high admiral to five persons, who were directed to provide quarters and assistance for the sick and wounded seamen of the navy, and also to provide for the security and maintenance of prisoners of war taken at sea, and for the care of those who were sick or wounded. This establishment continued until February, 1713, when a new commission was granted to two members of the former board, to bring up the arrears and carry on the current business; this commission continued until May, 1715, when the duty was transferred to two members of the Navy Board, in which state it continued until March, 1717, when a commissioner was specially appointed for the service, who, with two members of the Navy Board, conducted the business for some time, but upon the death of one of the members of the Navy Board, no other being appointed to this duty, it continued to be managed by the special commissioner and one member of the Navy Board, until July, 1740, when, on account of the war with Spain, the assistance of a member of the Navy Board was discontinued, and a special commission granted to three persons for this service and for the exchange of prisoners of war. In 1745, another commissioner was added on account of the increase of business, occasioned by the war with France, that the hospitals and prisons might be visited frequently by a member of the board: from that time to the present, it has been a distinct commission, and the number of commissioners has varied, as the state of the service required.

From the year 1745, to 25 Mar. 1749, there were 4 commissioners.

Names of Commissioners in February, 1802.

Dr. James Johnston*, 1st commissioner
 Sir William Gibbons, Bart.
 Dr. Gilbert Blane
 Dr. John Harnes

* On 23d February, 1802, Dr. James Johnston died, and Dr. John Weir was appointed to complete the number of commissioners.

The commissioners are allowed a salary of 500l. per annum each; to the first commissioner is given in addition, 65l. per annum, for house rent.

In the year 1796, the care and custody of prisoners of war in health, as well as the exchanging of prisoners of war, were transferred from this board to the Transport Board; and in the same year, the appointment of surgeons and surgeons mates for the navy, were transferred from the Navy Board, to the Sick and Wounded Board.

The duties of this board may be divided into the seven following heads.

1. The care of the sick on board all His Majesty's ships in commission.
2. The care of those sent to hospitals and sick quarters.
3. The care of sick prisoners of war.
4. The superintendence of medicines and necessaries supplied for the use of the sick afloat, and on shore.
5. The superintendence of hospitals and sick quarters.
6. The examination of all surgeons and surgeons mates for the navy, as to their professional qualifications.
7. The appointment of surgeons and surgeons mates for His Majesty's ships and vessels.

MARINE OFFICE,

AT THE ADMIRALTY.

The sole direction of the corps of marines, is vested in the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty. The secretary to the Admiralty is likewise secretary to the marines, for which he has a salary of 300l. a year.

The marine corps are in three divisions, at Chatham, Portsmouth, and Plymouth; there they are commanded by their own officers, who rise in the service according to seniority; and are embarked with their men on board the ships of war, according to the number appointed for each rate; excepting the field officers, who never go afloat.

In the year 1759, King George the Second formed a new establishment of marine officers, entitled the general, lieutenant-general, and three colonels of marines, to be taken from the officers in the royal navy. And in the year 1794, his present Majesty established the office of major-general of marines.—The generals are always flag officers, and the colonels post captains.*

* In 1802, His Majesty was graciously pleased to signify his royal pleasure, that in future this corps should be called, The Royal Marines, for the eminent services it had performed during the war.

First establishment of the Admirals and Captains in the Royal Navy, to the Command of the Corps of Marines in 1760, to the 31st December, 1800.

GREENWICH HOSPITAL.

Where this magnificent edifice is erected, stood formerly the palace of several kings of England. King Charles the Second intended to build a new palace here, on a very grand scale, but died soon after one wing was erected. It remained in this state, till the reign of King William the Third; who, in the year 1694, by letters patent, converted this palace into an hospital for such seamen as by age, wounds, or other accidents, are rendered incapable of further services, and for the widows of such as happen to be slain in the sea service. Parliament lent its support to this noble building, which was to be erected from a plan of Sir Christopher Wren's, who generously, with Mr. John Scarborough, undertook to conduct this charitable work, without any reward. Commissioners were appointed to see it executed. Many liberal benefactions were received for this glorious institution, amounting to 18,902l. King William granted 2000l. a year towards the carrying on, perfecting, and endowing the hospital. In the year 1696, an act passed, that fixpence per man per month should be paid out of the wages of all seamen in the royal navy and merchant service, for the use of this hospital. In the year 1728, salaries were settled on the captains and lieutenants, and the amount of their half-pay was directed to be to the the treasurer, in aid of its revenues. In 1735, parliament bestowed on it the estates of the attainted Earl of Derwentwater, which, at this time, amounted to about 6000l. a year.

The governors of this charity, appointed by act of parliament, are the great officers of state, and persons in high posts under the king; the Lord Mayor, and the three senior Alderman of the city of London; the Master and five elder Brethren of the Trinity House; the Governor, Deputy Governor of Greenwich Hospital. To these, His Majesty in Council, is empowered to add such noblemen and gentlemen as he sees fit.

The Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, name twenty-four gentlemen as Commissioners, for the better government of the hospital. The officers of the house form a council, which meets once a week, for the punishing of all breaches of rules; appeals may be to the Commissioners, who meet once a fortnight. The Governors meet every six months, or oftner, if occasion require it.

The Governor and Treasurer are appointed by patent; the rest of the officers by the Admiralty. They have all exceeding good houses in the hospital, and are allowed a certain quantity of coals and candles, besides one shilling and two-pence per day for their table.

The pensioners are clothed in blue, and are allowed clothes, linen, stockings, shoes, and one shilling a week for pocket money. Some of these are boatswains mates; these are distinguished by a narrow gold edging on their hats, and have one shilling and sixpence per week. There is a boatswain for each ward in the hospital, whose business it is to take care of the ward, see the men do their duty, and report any misdemeanours to the Lieutenant-Governor; and likewise to command the watch upon their guard; these wear a broad gold lace round their pockets, cuffs, and hats, and have two shillings and sixpence a week.

A school was established in the hospital by Lord Aylmer, when governor; it consists of the sons of sailors, particularly those who have been slain in battle. They are admitted at eleven years of age, and go out at sixteen, either to the sea service, or any other trade they may chuse. The fund for their maintenance and education, arises from the money paid by each stranger, who comes to see the hospital, &c.

A bill passed on the 31st of March, 1763, for the establishment of out-pensioners, at 7l. per annum each; their number at that time amounted to 1400.

ADMIRALS.

A List of the Noblemen and Gentlemen who have been raised to the dignity of Admirals in the Royal Navy of England and Great Britain, from the restoration of King Charles the Second, 1660, to the 31st of December, 1801.

George Monk served as an admiral during the Commonwealth, and fought some desperate battles with the Dutch : he was however, the happy means of restoring King Charles to his dominions ; was created Duke of Albemarle, K. B. and commander in chief of the fleet. This great man died January 3, 1669, in the 62d year of his age.

Prince Rupert, K. G. Duke of Cumberland, nephew to the King, acted as an admiral against the Dutch, and behaved with great bravery. In 1673 lord high admiral. Died November 29, 1682.

Sir John Lawson, Knt. died of the wounds he received in an action with the Dutch off Lowestoffe, 1665.

Edward, Earl of Sandwich, K. G. killed in the battle of Southwold bay, May 29, 1672.

Sir Richard Stayner, Knt. with three ships of war, captured and destroyed eight Spanish galleons ; afterwards he behaved with great gallantry under Admiral Blake at the attack of the Spanish flota, at Santa Cruz.

1661.

Sir Robert Holmes destroyed the Dutch magazines in the island of Vlie, and a large fleet of merchantmen, and burnt some ships of war.

Sir Thomas Allen, Knt. took part of the Dutch Smyrna fleet, killed Van Brakett, their commodore, and drove the remainder into Cadiz ; contributed greatly towards defeating the Dutch off the North Foreland, July 25, 1666. In 1670 appointed comptroller of the navy. In 1683 he was appointed commander in chief of the fleet.

Sir

Sir William Penn bore a very conspicuous part in the famous Dutch wars during the Commonwealth: he greatly distinguished himself on many occasions; but having failed on his expedition to the West-Indies in 1654, on his return was committed to the Tower by the Protector, but was soon after released. At the restoration he was knighted, and appointed a commissioner of the admiralty and navy. In 1664 he was first captain to the fleet under the Duke of York, with the rank of vice admiral. In 1666 he was appointed comptroller of the victualling accounts.

1665.

Robert Sampson, Esq. killed in the battle with the Dutch off Lowestoffe 1665.

Sir Thomas Tyddiman, Knt. attacked the Dutch fleet in the port of Bergen, in Norway, and was repulsed.

Sir George Ayfcue, Knt. admiral of the white, had his flag on board the Royal Prince, in the action off the coast of Suffex, June 1, 1666: his ship being much disabled, ran a-ground on the Galloper sand bank, was burnt, and the Admiral and crew made prisoners. In 1664 commissioner of the navy.

Sir William Berkeley, Knt. vice admiral of the white, killed in the above battle.

Sir Joseph Jordan, Knt. behaved with great bravery in many battles, particularly in the action of Solebay, May 9, 1672.

Sir Christopher Myngs, Knt. killed in the great sea fight, June 1, 1666.

Sir John Harman, Knt. commanded in the West-Indies. He defeated and destroyed a superior fleet of the Dutch and French, and burnt the French admiral's ship, 1667.

Sir Jeremiah Smith, Knt. sent to command in the Mediterranean, with permission to wear the union, fought with great bravery against the Dutch in several sea actions. In 1669 commissioner of the navy.

1666.

Sir Edward Spragge, Knt. chastised the Algerines in 1670; and performed many other eminent services. Drowned in a sea fight off the coast of Holland, August 11, 1673.

—— Uthurt, Esq.

Richard Utber, Esq. behaved with great gallantry on many occasions. Died 1669.

1667.

Sir John Holmes, when commander in chief in the Downs, although only a rear admiral of the blue, had the privilege to wear the union flag at the main.

Sir John Kempthorne, Knt. knighted for burning an Algerine fleet. In 1675 commissioner of the navy. In 1678 again hoisted his flag: and at the peace Sir John returned to his civil employment. He died 1679.

Thomas

1670.

Thomas, Earl of Ossory, son to the Duke of Ormond, behaved with much bravery on the 19th of May, and 11th of August, 1673. K. G. died 1680, aged 46.

1672.

Sir Fretcheville Holles, Knt. rear admiral, lost his right arm in an action with the Dutch 1667; killed on board the Cambridge, May, 1672, in the battle of Solebay.

1672.

Sir John Narborough, Knt. In 1669 sailed on a voyage of discoveries to the South Seas captain of the Sweepstakes, of 36 guns, and returned in June, 1671. Captain of the Prince in the action of Solebay. In 1674 commander in chief in the Mediterranean. He chastised the Barbary States, and obliged them to sue for peace. In 1680 commissioner of the navy. Died 1688.

1666.

Sir John Chicheley, Knt. was a commissioner for the office of master of the ordnance; and in 1675 a commissioner of the navy. In 1682 a lord of the admiralty until 1684; and again to the same office in 1690.

1678.

Sir Roger Strickland, Knt. In 1688 rear admiral of England: as a distinguishing mark of his office, he was permitted to wear the union flag, with a pendant over it, at the mizen top-mast head. Soon after the sailors refused to serve under his command, he being a papist.

Edmund Dod, Esq.

Lord Nelson, K. B. in 1786, commanded at the Leeward Islands, as senior captain. In 1794, he was captain of the Agamemnon, in the Mediterranean, under Lord Hood, where he gave great proofs of his skill and bravery, and was extremely active when employed on shore, at the batteries at Bastia and Calvi; at the last of these places, he was severely wounded and lost the sight of his right eye. In 1796, had his broad pendant on board the Captain of 74 guns, and performed various eminent services. In the engagement on the 14th February, 1797, he distinguished himself in a most conspicuous manner, by his very gallant and resolute attack on the St. Joseph, a Spanish ship of 112 guns, and the St. Nicholas of 84 guns; both of which he carried by boarding. On this occasion he was invested with the order of the Bath; and a gold medal. In July, the same year, he commanded the advanced squadron at the blockade of Cadiz; and displayed infinite bravery in the attacks he made on the Spanish batteries and gun boats. On the 15th of that month, he was sent with a small squadron (his flag on board the Theseus) in an expedition against Santa Cruz, in the Island of Teneriff, which unfortunately failed. On this service he lost his right arm, and soon after returned to England. In April, 1798, he again joined the fleet under Earl St. Vincent, off Cadiz, with his flag on board the Vanguard; and was immediately detached with a squadron into the Mediterranean, to watch the motions of the French fleet at Toulon. On the 1st August, 1798, he gained immortal honour, by the judicious, masterly, and determined manner in which he planned his attack, and defeated a French fleet of thirteen sail of the line and four frigates, besides gun boats and batteries on the shore, in Aboukir Bay, near the mouth of the Nile. The French Admiral's ship of 120 guns, was blown up, one of 74 guns, and two frigates burnt; the remainder (excepting two sail of the line and two frigates) fell into the hands of the victors. For this glorious and ever memorable victory, he was raised to a peerage of Great Britain, with a pension of 3000l. a year; presented with a gold medal, besides many other honourable testimonies of his King and country's approbation, for his meritorious conduct. In 1799, he had his flag on board the Foudroyant

Foudroyant of 84 guns, chiefly employed on the coast of Italy, to protect the different states from the outrages of the French, and insurgents. He conducted the King and royal family of Naples to Palermo, and rendered them other essential services, for which his Sicilian Majesty conferred on him the title of Duke of Bronti; the feud of which is supposed to be worth 3000*l.* a year. The Grand Signior presented him with a superb diamond aigrette, and a rich pelice; he was also loaded with a variety of other honours and presents. See Vol. III. p. 119 and 134. In 1800, he struck his flag and returned home over land. In January, received His Majesty's permission to bear the great cross of the order of St. Ferdinand and of Merit; also for himself and heirs, the title of Duke of Bronti, with the fief annexed, conferred upon him by Ferdinand IV, King of the Two Sicilies. April, 1801, commanded the detachment of the fleet in the Baltic, which attacked and destroyed the flotilla before Copenhagen; afterwards commanded the fleet, on the resignation of Sir Hyde Parker. In August, appointed to command a squadron for the defence of the coast, from Orfordness to Beachy Head: attacked the flotilla before Boulogne, and destroyed several of the enemy's gun boats; in a second attempt, was repulsed with considerable loss. Upon the preliminaries of peace being signed, in November his lordship struck his flag. Has been a colonel of marines.

Robert Montagu, Esq. In 1801, sent to Jamaica; returned home 1802.

John Fergusson, Esq.

Edward Edwards, Esq.

Sir John Borlase Warren, Bart. and K. B. has distinguished himself in a very conspicuous manner, in the present war, by his persevering zeal and activity, both as a captain and commodore of a squadron, against the cruizers and trade of the enemy, on the coast of France. He has displayed great skill and bravery in several actions; took and destroyed above twenty sail of French frigates and corvettes, besides upwards of 200 sail of privateers and merchant vessels. In 1795, he commanded the squadron on the expedition against Quiberon, to favour the landing of a large body of emigrants, which terminated in their almost total destruction. In October, 1798, he defeated a French squadron off the N. W. coast of Ireland, took La Hoche of 80 guns and four frigates. In 1799, he had his flag on board the Renown, and attached to the Channel fleet. In 1800, sent with a squadron to convoy a large body of troops to the Mediterranean, who on their passage, made an unsuccessful attempt upon Ferrol. In 1801, commanded a division of the fleet in the Mediterranean. Returned home 1808.

January 1, 1801.
